

This week: Spectacular urban homes

1 ◀ San Francisco Set in Duboce Triangle, this two-bedroom apartment is on the top floor of an 1800s Victorian. Historic details include the original wood floors and an open living room with a wood-burning fireplace. The kitchen features modern appliances, Caesarstone counters, and a breakfast nook. There are also a parking space and a shared backyard. $995,000. Alexander Clark, The Front Steps/Top Agent Network, (415) 254-5351

2 ◀ Los Angeles This two-bedroom, two-and-a-half-bath condominium on Wilshire Boulevard features an open floor plan, high ceilings, and glass walls that provide views of Holmby Hills and Bel Air. Building amenities include valet parking, 24-hour security, a gym, a pool, and guest rooms. $839,000. Claire Burns, Partners Trust, (310) 880-5288

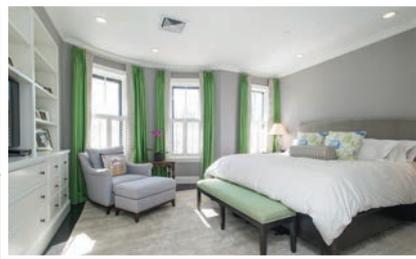

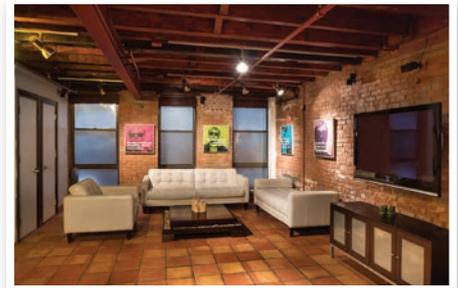

3 ▶ Dallas The floor-to-ceiling windows in this two-bedroom, 28th-floor condominium allow views of the skyline. The home underwent a million-dollar renovation that incorporated new lighting, sound design, and decor. Amenities include a three-car garage, a large deck, and access to a community pool. $1,900,000. Alex Perry, Allie Beth Allman & Assoc./Christie's International Real Estate, (214) 926-0158

4 ▶ Denver This two-bedroom condominium in the Four Seasons Private Residences overlooks the central business district. Features include a chef's kitchen with a marble island and backsplash, a large fireplace in the family room, and shelf ceilings throughout. The building offers access to a spa, swimming pool, fitness center, and concierge staff. $2,290,000. Douglas D. Kerbs, LIV/Sotheby's International Realty, (303) 898-7818

5 ◀ New York City This 3,200-square-foot condominium in SoHo was originally a horse stable for the fire department. The two-bedroom duplex has exposed wooden beams, skylights, and an Italian marble fireplace. The master bedroom features a marble bathroom en suite and a walk-in closet. $4,500,000. Gregory Havio and David Benmen, RLTYNYC, (212) 858-9692

6 ◀ Boston This brick home in the South End underwent a gut renovation in 2014. The five-bedroom house, built in 1890, features a double parlor with a deck, a chef's kitchen with custom cabinets, and a master suite with an office and a dressing room. The roof has Trex decking and wrought-iron rails, and affords panoramic views. $4,250,000. Jennifer Titus, Coldwell Banker Residential Brokerage, (617) 513-8900

Steal of the week

7 ▲ Minneapolis This 1,160-square-foot apartment overlooks Lake Calhoun. The one-bedroom apartment has a gas fireplace, 9-foot ceilings, and a remodeled kitchen and pantry. The den can be converted to a second bedroom, and access to the balcony is available from every room. $399,900. Bob Kessler, Coldwell Banker Burnet, (612) 386-6148